[30] BRIGANTI, Vincenzo & F. BRIGANTI

Historia fungorum regni Neapolitani picturis ad naturam ductis illustrata, opus inchoatum a Vincentio Briganti atque a Francisco ejus filio, additis observationibus pluribus ac figuris, continuatum, et in lucem editum. Napoli: [1837-1848]

(i-iii), iv-xvi, (1)-140: 46 engraved plates

Volbracht 254; Stafleu 758. - A book of greatest rarity. Lazzari in „Storia della micologia italiana“ underlines the importance of the work, as it has been often quoted by Fries. Briganti was a Professor for botany and medicine in Naples. He died in 1836 and the work was completed and published by his son Francisco. It also was published in Memorie della Real accademia delle scienze de Napoli, vol. VI, 1852. Only very few copies with coloured plates exist. Even Lazzari describes it with „tavole in bianco et nero“, like this copy. The plates skilfully engraved, depicting finely the different species of Agaricales, including „Agaricus aegerita“ and other new species. A fair copy. Title soiled with spots, traces of ink and signature and stamp of the library of Dr. Eustachio Mignoli. One light stamp on lower margin of plate 1. Last two plates soiled and repaired. Bound in modern half-leather with marbled paper, raised bands, gilt title on spine. 40. 26,6 cm and 29,5 cm (plates).

lith. plates by A. M. Hussey, F. Reed, M. J. B. Folio p (i), (i)-viii: 72 pl.; (i), pl 73-90, p (i), ii, (iii, index), (i), 50 pl., p (i, index)

Volbracht 944; Stafleu 3159; Krieger 111; Nissen 961 - not in the Schliemann-Catalogue by Uellner. - Very rare and beautiful. This is the only great mushroom-iconography from the hand of a woman, with fine and elegant handcoloured lithographs. Anna Maria Hussey was a Victorian scientific illustrator from Buckinghamshire, who published this book as Mrs T. J. Hussey - according to the forenames of her husband. She knew the nearby living Charles Darwin and was corresponding with the leading mycologist of her time in England, Miles Joseph Berkeley. - The beautiful illustrations show mushrooms in their natural environment. Some of the plates are drawn by Berkeley, the others by Hussey and F(rances) Reed, a younger sister of the author. The much rarer second volume was published after Hussey's death, who died in 1853 at the age of 48. Interesting text, written by a real mushroom-lover, with descriptions, many references to the older literature, personal observations, explanation of the use of fungi etc. Harshly, Hussey criticises Paulets experimentations on dogs with Amanita phalloides. Bound in contemporary half-leather with gilt title (rubbed). Folio. 32

 Volbracht 1793; Stafleu 9498; Nissen 1672; Vicaire 749. - One of the most important early works on the use of wild fungi as food in France with lots of interesting experiences and observations. (First edition 1832). Roques, a physician and botanist, introduced mushroom-eating to many of his contemporaries, giving courses of instruction at Versailles.
 He was related to the famous cook Carême and to the first French gastronomical author, La Reyniere („Almanach des Gourmands“), with whom he gathered fungi near Paris.
 Roques has his own recipes and quotes some from the famous gastronomes of his time. He has 4 recipes for morels, 4 different preparations for Bolets, 10 for „champignons“, 6 for mousserons, 6 for Amanita caesarea and 15 for truffles. Plates slightly spotted. Text in half-cloth, rubbed, with label on spine. Atlas in original cloth-backed boards, worn. 22 and 30 cm Euro 920

Die eßbaren Schwämme des Oesterreichischen Kaiserstaates. Wien und Triest: In Geistingers Buchhandlung 1809 p (i)-cxxxiii, (1)-174: 30 hand-coloured plates

Volbracht 2121; Stafleu 14.880; Pfister p 136; Nissen 1986 (28 plates only); Uellner 1785. - Scarce and lovely early popular book. Leopold Trattinnick (1764-1849) was a curator of the united k.k. Hof-Naturalienkabinette. He had been asked to write a book on poisonous fungi, but he convinced the editor to deal with edible species. So he warns that all other species, not mentioned in his book, were dangerous or poisonous. With instructions for cooking of most species. A nice copy with only slight spotting, a few plates narrowly cut by the binder. Pages 111-112 are always skipped in the pagination. Contemporary half-leather binding with gilt title on spine (boards slightly rubbed and soiled). 19 cm
